

May 24, 2020

10 summer-friendly wine offerings to add to your collection

Looking for some wines to enjoy this summer? Here are some recommendations.

National Wine Day is next coming up on May 25, 2020. In celebration of this fun holiday, millions of people are expected to be celebrating with a glass (or more) of their favorite vino.

Killing three birds with one stone, not only is National Wine Day coming up, but so are Father's Day and the summer 2020 season. In turn, plenty of celebrating ought to be ahead for you and yours.

Below and on the following pages are 10 wine offerings worth purchasing sometime in the coming months.

Gary Farrell 2017 Pinot Noir, Hallberg Vineyard

The Gary Farrell Winery, as based in the Russian River Valley, is one of California's most accomplished wineries for high-end, small-lot Pinot Noirs and Chardonnays.

Its Gary Farrell 2017 Pinot Noir, Hallberg Vineyard, Russian River Valley — priced at $55 per bottle — is a lush Pinot which comes from a premier vineyard in the cool-climate Green Valley sub-appellation of Russian River.

It has both a beautiful intensity and complexity. Also acclaimed from the Gary Farrell team is its 2017 Chardonnay, Olivet Lane Vineyard, with a retail price of $45, which comes from a famed vineyard that was planted with Chardonnay in 1975.