

The Ultimate Wine Guide For Thanksgiving Dinner

Your ultimate guide to wine selections for the perfect Thanksgiving dinner with over 20 wine suggestions from across the globe and in every price point—including some amazing values.

We're back again with the annual discussion about what wines to serve with Thanksgiving dinner. Indeed, this holiday season make it a point to drink well—having suffered through yet another crazy election year we've all earned a nice glass of something exceptional to be shared with the people who make us happy. I quizzed one of the Whole Foods' wine buyers, Melanie Mann who is principal wine category manager for the grocery chain, about trends she sees for this coming season and what she suggests hosts stock up on (Sauvignon Blanc, rose, and lighter bodied reds for sure) but its Lambrusco that she's most excited about. "I'm always willing to die on the hill that is a beautifully made Lambrusco. I don't know how people get through life without sparkling red wines. I like them on the drier side, but here is a Lambrusco for everybody and for everything." This year's compilation reaches across the globe for wines of deliciousness in a range of price points from a $16 sparkling to $125 Barolo super splurge.

France

Château de La Chaize Fleurie, 2022: A marvelous Cru Beaujolais wine with delicate floral notes, soft red fruit and a wire of minerality that lends it a mouthwatering finish. $27.99